

Futron's Space and Telecommunications Division is the industry leader in providing decision management solutions and services to aerospace organizations. Our world-class team of market and policy analysts, economists, and engineers bring unparalleled skills and expertise to each customer. Located in downtown Bethesda, Maryland, minutes from Washington, DC, Futron has supported almost every major space-related enterprise in the U.S. and internationally.

Summary of Capabilities

Futron's Space and Telecommunications Division specializes in researching, analyzing, and forecasting space and telecommunications markets and programs. We help our commercial customers become more competitive, and we assist our government customers in understanding and leveraging space-related technologies and capabilities.

Futron's headquarters in Bethesda, Maryland

Services

- Business & Market Management
- Sales and Business
- Development Support
- Corporate and Business Case Analytics
- Due Diligence Support

Products

- FCCFilings.com
- Space Launch and Satellite Databases
- Space Competitiveness Index
- Annual Market Forecast

Industry Specialties

- Satellite Services
- Satellite and Launch Vehicle Manufacturing
- Emerging Technologies
- Technology and Product Assessments

Customer Testimonials

"Your advice on searching the FCCFilings.com website for the information I needed worked just fine. Thanks again for the terrific customer support."

– FCCFilings.com subscriber

"I have had] the opportunity to work with several consulting firms on market research projects. I can honestly say that not one exhibited more industry knowledge, professional competence or concern for the customer than Futron Corporation."

– Manager, Commercial Satellite Operator

"On behalf of the AST, I would like to thank the Futron team for a job well done!"

– FAA Senior Analyst

"I was much impressed by the initiative and commitment that each individual, and as a team, demonstrated during what proved to be a very difficult time in the history of the program."

– Department of Defense Director